LARGE CIRCULATION

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE, $5.00 PER YEAR.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 5.

The groundhog saw his shadow Sunday, and winter will continue with us for a season. If the remainder is no more like winter than what we have already had, the farmer can soon get ready for his early plowing.

WEST VIRGINIA is the next State whose Legislature is about to provide for the publication of test-books by the State. It seems this mistaken notion of economy must cross the continent, but it is wise. Legislator that passes it by.

SENATOR WORTHAM lost his cigarette bill, but he comes again on the moral side of legislation. This time with a bill making it a penalty of $50 to $200 for any person to carry concealed weapons at the Statehouse or in the city. The Republicans might upset all the Democrats in the contested election cases, so as to give them a good working majority.

The Democrats objected to any legislation being enacted until the House adopted rules for its government.

It seems this mistaken notion of economy must cross the continent, but it is wise. Legislator that passes it by.

We publish Gov. Buckner's reply to a letter of the Wheelers indicating his support of the amendment and gives the agriculturists of Kentucky sound, wholesome food for reflection.

The Wheelers were right in their indorsement of the Governor and without regard to party should be honored for their course.

The House has passed the bill giving the Henderson State Line two years longer in which to build their road without forfeiting the subsidies voted thereon. It will pass the Senate and become a law; then let the Company get actively to work on the road and construct the great trunk line between Chicago and Chattanooga.

The Legislature passed a resolution adjourning to day for three days in order to visit the Ederville penitentiary in a body, to inspect the work already done and make some estimate of the cost of the work to be done. The penitentiary has already cost nearly $500,000, but is a fine and stable structure. The appropriation to complete it should be given to the company which built the people.

When it is remembered that the retributive obligations between the two nations were established at the express solicitation of your Government and that it is every request for further extension that leads not in the highest spirit of consideration that you must sympathize with me in establishing that body, which itself initiated this policy and which represents the intelligence and justice of the great American people.

Mr. Hardin's speech was well received.

"WHAT'S the news?" "Muddy roads and mail travelers." This is the standing interview which the HERALD man has enjoyed with the few citizens who have been driven by steer necessity to come to town these last few weeks. We will not doubt have a well paved road laid before the winter is over. The people are ready for the long-continued reform, and before another winter we will have provisions for travel more in keeping with our necessities.

ATTORNEY GENERAL HARDIN signed up the Legislature last Saturday by his reply to a resolution calling on him for information regarding the number of times he has had assistance in conducting the business of the State. Mr. Langley offered the resolution and Mr. Hardin singled him out as the special object of his reply, which was caustic and severe beyond measure. In the case, Mr. Hardin made his reply a personal matter with Mr. Langley, and his friends regret his hurried course.

JAMES WILDERSON BROWN is in Louisville on a glorious big drink. He appeared with Bill Nye at McCauley's Theater last week. Riley, who has been drinking heavily for some time, inhibited too freely, and is still drunk. He is a brilliant man and an attractive poet. His poem, "When the Frost is on the Pumpkin and the Fodder in the Snow," is a fair sample of his dialect poetry. His time is past, and unless he lets whisky alone, he will soon go to the dogs and the devil. How many truly good men are ruined by an uncontrollable appetite for liquor?

WATERTON CITY was the scene of a terrible conflagration Monday morning. At seven o'clock the house occupied by Secretary Tracy and family caught fire while the inhabitants were all asleep. The smoke kept them dimmed in slumber until they all came into being harried with the building. Miss Mary Tracy and her French maid perished in the burning building. Mrs. Tracy jumped from an upper story window and died in a few minutes. Mrs. Wilmerding, a married daughter of Secretary Tracy, and her daughter, received slight injuries from jumping from a window. Secretary Tracy was taken from the house in an unconscious condition. It was a terrible blow and brings sadness to many hearts.

CONGRESS.

The Lower House of Congress was a tumultuous body last week, and has hardly cooled down yet. The Speaker ran things pretty much as he pleased, setting aside the precedents of all his predecessors, he counted a quorum present when the members voted or not. He refused to entertain motions from Democrats that were strictly in order, and in numerous other ways constituted himself the autocrat of that Legislative body. The committee on Rules rendered, purporting to be in order, that the Republicans might upset all the Democrats in the contested election cases, so as to give them a good working majority.

The Democrats objected to any legislation being enacted until the House adopted rules for its government. It seems this mistaken notion of economy must cross the continent, but it is wise. Legislator that passes it by.

SENATOR WORTHAM lost his cigarette bill, but he comes again on the moral side of legislation. This time with a bill making it a penalty of $50 to $200 for any person to carry concealed weapons at the Statehouse or in the city. The Republicans might upset all the Democrats in the contested election cases, so as to give them a good working majority.

and the assessors' books will give the number of qualified voters in the State. 1850 is the fifth districting since the adoption of the present Constitution. There is no greater mystery about it. No depriving citizens of representation, but complying with the requirements of the Constitution; neither does the Constitution provide for a special census of the people for this purpose alone.

THE HEATHEN CHINESE.

As time moves slowly on, we take time to consider the effect of total Chinese exclusion, they see that political trickery in both parties responsible for much of the legislation of the question. The effect of American legislation and commerce is what we mean by the word "exclusion." The Chinese Minister gives his opinion on the action of our government in such plain and telling language that Americans must read it with a wistful smile, want a large one, and last week called up the contested election one of Smith Jackson. In order to force the House to adopt rules before they went through their determination to seat all the Republicans contesting for seats, the Democrats refused to vote, thereby leaving the House without a quorum. Speaker Reed directed the Clerk to count the gentlemen present and not voting, declared a quorum present and proceeded to business. Then the House began and raged at white heat for three days. The Democrats, who were right from principle, the right from personal acquaintance, I am certain, had the most profound respect. It forces upon me the conviction that in the three years in which I have resided in this country, I have not been fully able and correctly to comprehend the principles and systems of your Government. In my country we have acted upon the conviction that where two nations deliberately and solemnly entered upon treaty stipulations, they thereby formed a sacred compact from which they could not be easily disengaged, except through friendly negotiations and a negotiation of peace. When I first came here, I was told that the Chinese Minister was then seated in the Chinese Embassy, and that he was to be a powerful factor in the formation of the Chinese system. This is true, but the people themselves are organizing for self protection, and propose that their voices be heard, and that their interests be considered in future legislation.

As time goes on, we shall see that they come to realize that the Chinese are not to be trifled with.

When is a Black Line Red?

This is a conundrum and one you ought not to give up, for there's money in it. There is always money in everything we advertise, and if we puzzle you with words we will please you with Bargains. Now for the answer:

A BLACK LINE IS READ

When it is a Line of Printer's Ink Announcing one of

J. E. FOGLE & CO'S Bargain Offerings!

Everybody reads these lines, because everybody knows that we never talk without saying something and never advertise without having something special for buyers. This time we are out with our entire stock of Winter Goods

FOR EXACTLY COST!

If you want an Overcoat, Ladies Cloak, Mens or Boys Boots or Shoes, or anything in Winter Goods, you can buy them at manufacturer's prices. It will pay every one who has an eye for Bargains in these Goods to just drop everything and come and take a look at our offering. This is a genuine offer of generous Bargains, which will be generally appreciated by everybody who knows what's what. We want close and skilled buyers to look at our Goods. We will sell, of course, to anybody, but we prefer to sell to those who know what they are getting and are correspondingly appreciative. These buyers will come back, every time.

Everything you need in the jewelry line at Martin's.

Eugene Gasser's bread constantly on hand at C. N. Gauthier's.

Yeager & Miller have constantly on hand the best of rigs for hire at most reasonable figures.

Why sell your eggs elsewhere when you can get 10 cents per dozen at C. P. Woerner & Son?

Murphy, the tailor of Troywood, has an establishment in Hartford in which he offers great bargains.

C. P. Woerner & Son have added a nice line of hardware to their already large stock of groceries.

For anything you may need in the liver line, call on Yeager & Miller on corner, Union and Market Streets.

"Major," the Maltese cat of Mr. H. D. McFerney, was last Saturday dinner with the Herald, and the Herald dined with him.

Mr. John C. Ralph and Miss Minnie Rhoads, both of new Macau, Ky., are to be married at the home of the bride-to-morrow.

Cards will soon be out announcing the marriage of young attorney of the Hartford Bar, an attractive and popular young lady.

John P. Foster and William Stevens will engage in a joint discussion on the Weeks question, pro and con, at No. Creek next Friday night.

Henry Carson, who is opening out a general grocery store on Union street, is prepared to give his hand to the cause of the week.

Misses the bustling jeweler, is prepared to do all kind of repairs on watches, clocks and jewelry at exceedingly low prices. All work guaranteed.

Just received at C. N. Gauthier's, show-chow, sweet pickle in bulk, sour kraut, navy beans, lima and string beans in can, mince meat, jelly and preserves.

After screeching ourselves hoarse for better street crossings, we have now consented to hope for them. Perhaps they will come along with the country road and the millennium.

The County Clerk's office was the scene of another wedding last Thursday. The parties were Mr. W. J. Martin and Miss Sallie Hinton, both of Bell's Run neighborhood. Dr. Coleman pronounced the ceremony. As usual, a marriage at the court house draws a crowd of spectators.

Mr. Lyons, of Haynesville, is our authorized agent at that place, and anyone desiring to subscribe for the HERALD or get the best of job work at prices to suit the times, can be accommodated by calling on Mr. Lyons.

Mr. John B. Wilson closed his school at West Providence last Saturday. An excellent school, it was well conducted for a gala day. The excessive and continuous rain fall slightly hampered the attending and partially changed the program. A pleasant time was had indoors, as the people of the neighborhood turned out in large numbers. The exercises were well rendered, considering the weather. One feature of the occasion was a large bouquet of spring time flowers. Mr. Wilson taught the people that community a good school.

Miss Fields, the dancing comedian at the Alexander school, occurred. The students had prepared orations, recitations and declamations. A large crowd of parents and well-wishers gathered at the school to witness the exercises.

The young people acquitted themselves with credit. Mr. J. W. Lytle, who taught the school except the last two weeks, was present and addressed the audience.

Mr. W. W. Winkler and son, Haynesville, were guests of Mr. Wm. Milligan last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Winkler and son have been teaching at Whiteville and Pennington, where they have been from their work.

EDUCATIONAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

(Dr. A. D. Hinman, Editor,
Times should be addressed to him, Post Office,
Bardstown, Ky.)

In 1842, the national debt amounted to $127,000,000.

James Monroe was inaugurated on March 4th, 1817.

The battle of New Orleans was fought January 18th, 1815.

What ever was worth doing all is, is worth being done.

The census act of 1790 made both land and gold coin ready for all kinds.

John Adams was inaugurated president of the United States, March 4, 1797.

General Washington died Dec. 14, 1799 at Mt. Vernon at the age of 88 years.

A system of government was removed from Philadelphia to Washington in the year 1800.

The earth is in its perdition when it is nearest the sun, and at its apogee when it is remotest from the sun.

Opposite lies the choice of Vice-President devolved on the Senate; this was in the case of Richard M. Johnson, who failed of an election by one vote.

The Saragossa Seal is the emblem of the Saragossa, green and composed of seven seals, which encloses the shield or shield caused by the several ocean currents which surround it.

The Democratic party vacillated, until the Whig party grew strong, when another effort to make the old fashioned was dropped, and Democrat was assumed.

An appeal to the common sense of your scholars is rarely without reward while every effort to form his judgment will and ought to meet with the most logical and determined resistance.

Prof. Town says "that man only is properly educated who can read his books correctly upon paper." No one, we think, would gainsay this. The idea here is that for this he uses "books" as "school."

Did General Grant even gain a decided victory? He did not, but his defeat had all the effects of success, and consequently he was exonerated from their charges. Let them criticize us. Let us persuade them if we cannot persuade, we will aggravate them.

Teacher. "How many ounces of ink do you write?"

Grocer boy. "Sixteen."

Teacher. "Correct. How many pounds make a pound weight?"

Grocer boy. "One hundred."

Teacher. "Right again. How many hundred weight make a ton?"

Cook dealer. "That is a business secret."

Did you ever meet a man who was still very ignorant of what he was about? Who did not know more about forming than his neighbor? Who was not ready to offer advice and suggestions to a merchant or to have him advise his son to go to college? Who had not shamed his son in his life?

Who didn't know that if you escaped for that horse you would be cheated out of your eye teeth? Who could not make a better paper lamp than that and burn it over fallen under his notice? Who was not satisfied with anything or anybody?

Well do we remember the mortal agony into which it threw us when in our young days, the teachers issued orders for original compositions. It would be a relief now to have them ordered no more, or to a sonal thrashing.

We would have thanked him for the choice. We had a friend, a real friend, in the teacher of the school, whom he had shamed into the school. We learned more from that friend about writing compositions than the teacher would have taught us all.

There have been no such incidents of school life in the United States, all except by the deaths of the inmates.

Wm. H. Harrison died April 4th, 1841, just one month before his inauguration, and was succeeded by John Tyler April 6th, 1841. Harrison was born in Virginia, 1773, and was succeeded by Miller Fillmore, July 1st, 1850. Abraham Lincoln was assassinated on the night of April 14th, 1865, and was succeeded by Andrew Johnson April 15th, 1865. James A. Garfield died Sept. 19th, 1881, from the wound by an assassin and Vice-President Chester A. Arthur became president.

The case of the late Prof. Pease, and of Vice-President has never occurred.

Can you tell me a man thinks on New Year's day that he will not be as big a fool this year as he was last, and will be the嘲笑 all the time? Why a man does not know when the price of a railroad ticket? Why a man affects a profound knowledge of growing crops and prospects? Why is it so hard to find a man when you want to borrow his coat? Why is it so hard to borrow it when you do not want it? Why is it wrong to sign a fellow over that says "I told you so"? Why a man always wishes he had chosen some other profession? Why it takes three grown folks to take one in the city to see the animals? Can you tell why?

The Possibilities of Life.

We can not have more time than is given us, everything else is nothing.

The opportunities are rich, but it is the capacity of the blower, that determines whether we shall do it, for man makes himself.

It is, however, impossible to the blower in us that will sollicit and impinge upon him.

One man abhors mathematics, while another loves it, while another has a mind that creates nothing grand or steady into his constitution just as the music room can do more than hold its pliant partner to the ground.

John and Margaret Elliot, early settlers of Grayson County, November 10, 1811. She married David Caudle of Kentucky, in 1807, and their Mrs. Caudle moved to Ohio in 1811. Her husband died in 1812, and she and her son settled about the tremendous struggle. Another man draws to him self the whole printed in the granite heart he has, and another man has a heart of stone.

Another man has a heart that has enabled him to a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, and at the time of her death she had a heart of stone.

I have a friend at Grant's school here a few miles North of Perry's Ferry. I have known this friend lady more ever since she came to town, and she has a heart of stone.
